The Four Pillars of Learning – December 21st at 2pm UK time

Abstract: Learning is incredibly unique for each one of our students. However, as stated by the French neuroscientist Stanislas Dehaene, there are certain principles that need special attention as they can be considered universal. These pillars can be categorized into four: attention, engagement, feedback, and consolidation. They form the physiological mechanism of learning and need to be understood from both a theoretical and a practical perspective. In this session, we will explore how these four pillars can help teachers make learning more effective
